Title: Plant Propagation and Seed Saving

<https://www.palmbeachpreservation.org/visit/pans-garden>

Susan Lerner is the Director of Horticulture at the Preservation Foundation of Palm Beach. Her focus is environmental and landscape stewardship as an educator of schoolchildren and adults, as a native plant consultant with the Town of Palm Beach, and as the manager of the Foundation's green spaces, including Pan's Garden, the first all-native botanical garden in Florida. In 2017 Susan was honored with the Earth Steward Award from District X of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs.

As interest in Florida's indigenous plants grows, there is an increasing desire to learn how to propagate favorite and hard-to-find natives. This presentation will explore how to multiply a native collection using various methods - seeds, cuttings, and (my personal favorite) volunteer seedlings.
